Q.3 Point out one feature in the practice of federalism in India that is similar to and one feature that is different from that of Belgium.

Ans.: The similarity between Indian and Belgium federalism is that both have a feature of holding together federation which means in this type of federal structure states did not have any right to secede from the union.

The difference between Indian and Belgium federalism is that state government is subordinate to the central government but this is not the case with the Belgian government. In Belgium, both centre and state government are of equal status.

b) In the federal form of government, the central government cannot order the state government to do something or take any action whereas the central government can pass on orders to the provincial or the local government

Q.7 Here are three reactions to the language policy followed in India. Give an argument and an example to support any of these positions:

Sangeeta : the policy of accommodation has strengthened national unity.

Arman : Language-based states have divided us by making everyone conscious of their language.

Harish : This policy has only helped to consolidate the dominance of English over all other languages.

Ans.: From above given all the three reactions Sangeeta's reaction is best because of our policy of accommodation the unity in our nation has been strengthened. There are many other countries in this world like Sri Lanka, where the language of the majority has been promoted. In our country, there is equal status given to all the major languages that are being spoken in various parts of our country.

This policy of accommodation not only eliminated the conflicts between groups but also made the administration easier. Due to this policy of accommodation there is a larger participation in the government's activities by people who speak various languages.

Q.8 The distinguishing features of a federal government is:

- (i) National government gives some powers to the provincial governments.
- (ii) Power is distributed among the legislature, executive and judiciary.
- (iii) Elected officials exercise supreme power in the government.
- (iv) Governmental power is divided between different levels of government.

Ans.: We know that, federal government is that form of government in which the government is formed of three branches legislative, executive and judiciary and hence the governmental power is divided between these different levels of government.

Therefore option (iv) is correct
